

political gamble he recommended dissolution of the assembly and holding of fresh polls.

Bringing to an end a 49-day roller coaster ride in power, during which he received bouquets and brickbats in equal measure, the Chief Minister and his cabinet met for one last time when it decided to resign and make the recommendation to Lt Governor Najeeb Jung whose advice against the anti-graft Bill he had defied in the assembly.

The two shared a good equation all along but today he attacked Jung, saying he acts like a viceroy of the central government which thinks it is still a British Government.

Earlier in the day, Jung had advised the Assembly against transacting the Jan Lokpal Bill which he said should have prior clearance of central government.

Straight from the cabinet meeting, 45-year-old Kejriwal, who came to power riding the crest of an anti-graft movement and was called an anarchist for his street protest as CM, drove to the AAP headquarters in Central Delhi, three kilometres away from the Secretariat and addressed his supporters in pouring rain when he announced his resignation.

"The Cabinet has decided to resign. We have recommended to the Lt Governor to dissolve the assembly and hold fresh elections," he told a cheering audience wearing AAP's trademark cap which welcomed his speech with a thunderous clapping.

FIR against him on the gas pricing issue.

"The real face of BJP and Congress has been exposed. They did not allow the Bill (Janlokpal) to be introduced in the House. They defeated the Bill because three days back because we lodged an FIR against Mukesh Ambani," he said.

Kejriwal said Ambani was running the Congress government for the last 10 years, saying "Congress is his shop and he can buy anything whenever he wants".

He also did not spare Narendra Modi saying Ambani has been behind him for last one year. "Where are Modi's riches coming from. He is flying by helicopter criss crossing the country. He is addressing huge and expensive rallies. From where does he get money for all this."

High drama was witnessed in the assembly when Kejriwal defied Jung's advice and tabled the Bill which the BJP and Congress opposed stiffly.

After uproarious scenes and two adjournments, the resolution seeking leave for introduction of the Bill was put to vote and was defeated by 42 to 27 in a House of 70.

_PAGEBREAK_

The defeat forced Kejriwal and his Cabinet colleagues into executing the threat he has been issuing last one week about his preparedness to quit if Lokpal is defeated.

A reluctant politician, Kejriwal implemented some of the promises like slashing power tariff and free water and appeared on a confrontation with Congress by taking decisions that deliberately needed the outside supporter.

The 49-day tenure was also marked by controversies when his ministerial colleague Somnath Bharti went on a vigilante style raid on an alleged drug and prostitution racket that earned the government adverse publicity.

Kejriwal told his party supporters that Congress opposed the Jan Lokpal Bill because he had acted against the corruption of Sheila Dikshit by filing cases against her, Union Minister M Veerappa Moily and Ambani.

"They were ridiculing me saying I have only Anti-Corruption Branch but had Jan Lokpal Bill been passed half of them would have gone to jail. They conspired to defeat the government.

"After Ambani and Moily, (Sharad) Pawar's turn will come and then Kamal Nath. Because of this, Kejriwal has been removed. I am a small man. What is my status. I am not here for power," he said.

Kejriwal said his government brought down power rates and gave free water and drastically reduced corruption.

"We tried to work honestly but we are also human. People say we cannot govern. In 40 days, we brought corruption down and acted against Sheila Dikshit's corruption. They say govern, I want to say bringing corruption down is also governance," he said.

He told the crowd that his government was resigning and was proud to say that for Lokpal he would resign 100 times and sacrifice the CM's post. I will be fortunate to do it in the interest of the country.

The Chief Minister attacked the behaviour of MPs in Parliament yesterday when pepper was sprayed and mikes were broken. Similar things happened in Delhi Assembly too. What BJP and Congress members did in the Assembly was a shame on democracy.

"They say the Bill is not constitutional. Is breaking mikes constitutional. We are fighting for the nation, constitution and the people of the country. We will teach them a lesson. I am ready to sacrifice my life for the constitution. We will abide by the constitution that was made by people like Ambedkar.

"They say Parliament is a temple. Do you go to temple and break idols. Do you go to church and destroy the Bible", he said.

Before concluding his speech, he said "I pray to God. We are small people. Kindly bless us and guide us. Give us an opportunity to sacrifice for the country".

(<https://www.moneycontrol.com/news/business/india-russia-agree-to-expand-nuclear-collaboration-in-third-countries-3018791.html>)

"India lives in a very turbulent and nuclear-powered region. S400 provides that assurance and is compatible with its current platform.

Friends understand that these discussions with Russia started several years ago hence I do not believe US will impose a sanction on India," Mukesh Aghi, president of US India Strategic and Partnership Forum told PTI.

But for the presidential waiver, Countering America's Adversaries Through Sanctions Act or CAATSA sanctions kicks in in the event of a major purchase like S-400 missile defense system. Ahead of the deal, the US had urged India not to purchase S-400. It reiterated Friday.

"The Administration has indicated that a focus area for the implementation of CAATSA Section 231 is new or qualitative upgrades in capability – including the S-400 air and missile defense system," the White House NSC Spokesperson said.

Last month, the US had imposed sanctions on China for the purchase of S-400 from Russia. "Our recent action to sanction a Chinese government entity for an S-400 delivery underscores the seriousness of our resolve on this issue," the spokesperson said.

"The waiver authority is not country-specific. There are strict criteria for considering a waiver," said the spokesperson.

The State Department, which is tasked with reviewing the deal and initiated the process of sanctions or waiver under CAATSAA, and then recommend to the president, did not respond to the question on the time frame and the process.

However, one industry source told PTI that the law is ambiguous about "when a waiver is necessary so this can be avoided for years."

The National Defense Authorization ACT (NDDA) 2019 gives the president the power to waive off the CAATSA sanctions if it is a national security interest. It also lists out several other options for presidential waiver, prominent among which is the purchase country – India in this case –is taking or will take steps to reduce its inventory of major defense equipment and advanced conventional weapons produced by the defense sector of the Russian Federation as a share of its total inventory of major defense equipment and advanced conventional weapons over a specified period.

In fact, over the last more than a decade, India the top arms purchaser of the world, has gradually reduced its dependence on Russian arms. It now stands at about 60 percent, which is much lower than it was a decade ago. The United States has been a major beneficiary of this.

As part of its diversification plan, India has increased its purchase of arms from the US from about zero to more than USD 18 billion. India is in the process of purchasing arms and equipment worth billions of dollars from the United States in the coming months and years including armed and unarmed drones and fighter jets.

A presidential waiver can also be given if a country like India, in this case, is cooperating with the United States government on other security matters that are critical to United States strategic interests. Experts believe that is exactly the case and one of the main reasons for the US designating India as a major defense partner.

"I don't like to make predictions in today's Washington but sanctioning India, and surrendering the Indian defense market to Russia, would have exactly the opposite of the intended effect of CAATSA. No American interest group benefits from sanctioning India," Benjamin Schwartz from US India Business Council told PTI. He has previously served as the director for India in the US office of the secretary of defense.

Aparna Pande, from the Hudson Institute think-tank, said "I believe what is more likely is that even though India will sign the S-400 deal it will delay payment, etc so that the sanctions don't come into effect.

"This way India maintains its strategic autonomy and historical ties with Russia and yet ensures its strategic relationship with the US is not impacted either," Pande said.

According to Rick Rossow, from the Center for Strategic and International Studies think tank, said, "Congress widened the waiver criteria with India in mind, and the fact we had a robust 2+2 Dialogue in Delhi a month back shows that the administration believes in the momentum.

"But 'interest' is not the same as action, and opponents to a waiver may now begin to raise their voices. So nothing is certain," cautioned Rossow.

"The 2+2 meetings and signing of the COMCASA agreement suggest warming relations between the US & India. But its pursuit of the S-400 missile defense system poses some thorny tradeoffs for the Trump admin: how to constrain one party without hurting another?" Caroline Baxter from RAND Corporation said in a tweet.

The Russian Embassy in the US tweeted that the delivery of S-400 will begin in October 2020.

"Chhattisgarh once reverberated with the sound of bullets.... I have no hesitation in saying that the earlier Congress government (before the BJP came to power in the state in 2003) had forged ties with Naxals to stay in power. We broke that nexus and cracked down on Naxals.

"Entire Chhattisgarh is gradually getting rid of Naxalism and heading on the path of development," Shah said.

When Chhattisgarh came into existence, it was dubbed as one of the "Bimaru" (backward/sick) states and despite being in power for the initial three years, the Congress did nothing to boost its economic growth, he alleged.

The Congress did nothing to maintain law and order, curb Naxalism, eradicate hunger and uplift the forest-dwellers, despite being in power for 55 years at the Centre, the BJP chief said.

"Atalji (then prime minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee) founded the state and Raman Singh developed it," he said.

Shah mentioned the 24-hour power supply, road connectivity in the interior villages, purchase of forest produce at a minimum support price and other development works as some of Singh's achievements in the last 15 years.

He slammed the Congress over a scandal triggered by the circulation of a "sex CD", purportedly featuring state Public Works Department Minister Rajesh Munat.

Munat has filed a case against state Congress chief Bhupesh Baghel for allegedly trying to malign his image by circulating the CD.

"The BJP will be contesting the polls under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chief Minister Singh, but I want to ask Congress president Rahul Baba (Rahul Gandhi), who will lead the Congress? Will it be those who shamefully manufacture fake CDs for character assassination?" Shah asked.

"Are you (Gandhi) going ahead with a leader, who allegedly indulged in character assassination through fake CDs for seeking the mandate in

"Our mothers and sisters here are waiting to settle the score over the CD issue and rout the Congress," he said.

The BJP never indulged in the politics of "chaturai" (cunningness), Shah said.

He challenged the Congress to a debate on the work done during Modi's four-year rule and Raman Singh's 15-year tenure as against the opposition party's "55-year rule".

"People have two options in the coming polls. The first is the Congress which only talked about 'garibi hatao' (remove poverty) but removed the poor instead, while the other is the BJP, which, without raising slogans, ensured power supply to every house, provided houses for all, built toilets and gave bonus to the Tendu leave collectors," Shah said.

Earlier, after arriving at the Raipur airport, Shah flew in a helicopter to Sihawa, the origin of the Mahanadi river in Dhamtari district, where he offered prayers at the Mahamai Temple at Farsia village.

Shah's visit to Sihawa and Narharpur is being seen by political observers as an attempt to woo the tribal population of Chhattisgarh.
